Hello Noble Central,

It's hard to believe November has already arrived! This month is known for reflection and remembrance. I've had a chance to reflect on the start of the year, and I want to start my principal message with a huge thank you to our school community. None of us have been in the scenario we are in right now. Times are unsure, and there are a lot of question marks related to COVID-19. What can't be questioned is the patience and support that we feel at the school. We aren't perfect, but we strive to be better and better every day. There have been a lot of changes, but our community, and our students have taken everything with class and courage. From morning drop offs at specific doors, to wearing masks which fog glasses, things that we aren't used to have become manageable practices. Without your support and feedback, we wouldn't be where we are today. Thank you for everything that you do for us. The evaluation of how to return to traditional practices is ongoing, and we hope to always be growing and adding to what we offer students.

November will bring report cards and the first round of parent teacher interviews. We will be messaging out how parent teacher interviews will be set up. Because we are limiting the number of people that come into the school, we will be doing them virtually, but I'm hopeful that this allows people some flexibility in their time to meet with teachers. The communication between home and school is paramount to student achievement. So, stay tuned for what that will look like, and always feel free to reach out to your teachers, and administration.

Sadly, we will not be hosting our traditional Remembrance Day ceremony. We will be doing that within our school and within our class cohorts. But I'm hopeful that everyone is using this time to reflect on the freedoms we have, and take the time to do some self-care. We care about everyone in our school community, so I would encourage you all to take some time and "sharpen the Blade", so to speak. Prioritize your wellness and take care of yourself. If we can help you with something, please reach out. I sincerely thank you for all your support.

GO BLADES!!

Greg Rollingson
